Topic(s):

- Uncertainty in SCM applications
- Customer Relationship Management
- Requirements Chain Management

Keywords: Supply chain practice, upstream integration, downstream integration, internal integration, green performance

Abstract: The company builds communication and collaboration with suppliers and customers to increase competitiveness in the supply chain flow. The organization's ability to involve suppliers and customers in business activities to achieve efficiency and effectiveness is one of the objectives of supply chain practice. The distribution of questionnaires directly to hotel practitioners was 25 respondents, and 65 respondents obtained the distribution of google form links. The results showed that supply chain practices with supplier relationship management and quality information sharing activities could increase internal and upstream integration and not directly impact downstream integration. Internal integration with data integration activities accurately and coordination between functions on an ongoing basis can affect upstream and downstream integration and green hotel performance. Upstream integration and downstream integration with joint decision activities and planning synchronization with external parties can directly impact green hotel performance. They were increasing the market share and image of the hotel with the implementation of caring for the environment. This research contributes to hotel practitioners adopting practical supply chains in building internal and external integration to increase competitiveness and theoretical contribution to developing supply chain theory and green performance.

Dear Author

The following is the result of the review :

Reviewer # 1

- Add an introductory sentence to the indirect abstract of the research method.
- The abstract needs to have theoretical contributions and practical benefits
- In the introduction, observed phenomena of green hotels are added that have been implemented.
- Add journals related to the relationship between research concepts
- The discussion needs to be detailed and comprehensive

Reviewer # 2

- Abstracts can be added to research results that are more detailed and do not contradict the conclusions.
- The introduction is good enough, but it is necessary to provide research objectives in the last paragraph.
- The literature review is good, and it is necessary to set measurement items or research indicators for each theory.
- The discussion needs to be detailed

Reviewer # 3

- The format for writing articles is adjusted to the journal.
- Abstracts need to provide precise results and contributions.
- Practical phenomena and journals should both have the introduction inserted as theoretical phenomena.
- Add an explanation about the mean in Table 1
- Separate data analysis and discussion

Please adjust your performance in light of the review remarks.

Sincerely
Farhang
