Dear Author(s),

Thank you for submitting your manuscript titled "Implementing Bisection Method on Forex Trading Database to Early Diagnose of Inflection Point" to the International Journal of Advanced Computer Science and Applications (IJACSA).

Following careful consideration by the journal's editorial board and reviewers, we regret to inform you that we are unable to accept your manuscript for publication. It is evident from the extensive comments and concerns that the manuscript, at least in its current form, does not meet the criteria for the impact expected of the papers in IJACSA.

The selection of the papers was a challenging task and the reviewer board has put in a significant effort in the review process. The volume of manuscripts submitted to IJACSA has been growing rapidly, raising publication standards to new levels of selectivity. This outcome, though not always convenient to potential contributors, will help ensure that IJACSA maintains a position of leadership in the field.

We thank you for your interest, and hope you will choose to submit another article for review.

P.S. Please feel free to read the papers published in our journal and consider citing them in your future publications.

Regards,

Detailed Comments:

The abstract should define the paper's goal more precisely.

A concise introductory paragraph at the end of the Introduction section is crucial for the paper, as it provides a clear overview of the upcoming content and engages the readers' interest to delve further into the paper's details. Without this paragraph, readers may lack a comprehensive understanding of the paper's scope and objectives, potentially hindering their motivation to continue reading.

The data processing should be explained - the purpose of each step. Therefore Segment 1 could be replaced by algorithm description, Python code could be uploaded and available from some repository (for examlle github).

The obtained results should be compared with results from similar research.

The paper's conclusion appears overly concise; therefore, a more thorough depiction and summary of the findings should be provided. Furthermore, the paper would benefit from additional detailed discussions and comments regarding the presented results.
